

Sheringham Park Norfolk

Acquisition of the 352ha Sheringham Estate, with parkland landscaped in 1812 by Humphrey Repton (1752-1818) for Abbot Upcher. Repton considered it his finest work. The house is a handsome white brick villa, designed by Repton's son, and is privately let, but open by written appointment. The park has fine views of the sea and the woods contain spectacular plantings of rhododendron.
