

Sir John Narbrough Journal and Charts

The British Library have acquired the autograph journal and charts of the 17th century English naval explorer, Sir John Narbrough. The journal has been export stopped by the RCEWA under Waverley criteria 1 and 3 and starred as the committee feel that every possible effort should be made to keep the Journals in the UK.

Image

Map from Sir John Narbrough's Journal

Region

London

Grant awarded

£200,000

Year awarded

2009

Related News

British Library successfully stops English naval explorer's journal from sailing abroad

The Culture Minister's temporary export bar ends on 7 November so the British Library is in a race against time to raise the rest of the funds required to save this British naval pioneer's journal for our nation's seafaring heritage.

The purchase price of Sir John Narbrough's Naval Journal is £310,000. The British Library is urgently seeking donations to acquire this rare and unique heritage item in order to make it available to both academics and the general public.