

Titian's Diana and Actaeon

The National Gallery and the National Galleries of Scotland have acquired Titian's Diana and Actaeon (1556-59). The painting is part of the Bridgewater Collection, which has been on display at the NGS since 1945.

Image

Titian's Diana and Actaeon

Region

London

Grant awarded

£10,000,000

Year awarded

2008

Related News

NHMF awards £10million to help save masterpiece

The NHMF's contribution is the most significant so far to the campaign, bringing a welcome boost as the December deadline approaches.

The painting - which is currently on special loan to the National Gallery - has been offered to both Galleries on extremely favourable terms by the current owner, the 7th Duke of Sutherland.