Saving Manuscripts from the Age of Shakespeare

The Bodleian Library acquired a collection of rare works by 17th century greats John Donne, John Locke and John Aubrey. The collection includes a rare manuscript of one of John Donne's most famous poems – Good Friday, 1613, Riding Westward. The Bodleian purchased these items from the Pirie collection at auction and all items have now been catalogued and are available at the Bodleian Libraries.

Image

```
Marthen you fee way, uping from londer to said by ellery withouse.

Let man tombe the menny Denotion is:

Ind as the letter Spharks by betting grown.

Swell to formy maybe testing grown, they sweet,

And as the letter Spharks by betting grown,

Swell to formy maybe testing they sweet,

And to form electing maybe testing they sweet,

And to form all the state of the state of mile

Township forth ment and are want to be

The thing forth ment and are want to be

The thing forth ment and are want to be

The thing forth ment and are want to be

The thing forth of the a Sun to remain sorth,

And to be the sea Sun to remain sorth,

And to be the sweet on their and forth.

The thing forth of the realist of the other was forth,

And to be the sweet on the said and the state of the special of the ment was to the sea of the seal of the season of the seaso
```

John Donne's Good Friday, 1613, Riding Westward Nation/region South East Grant awarded £208,300 Award date 18/11/2015